

Mans inhumanity to man has not stopped

you want to be realized, the mind tells you that you are not realized. ...the mind tells you all these things. All your actions and reactions are all mental.

(“ I never use the word ‘enlightened about anyone. You use this word. I do not use this word in relation to any particular person.”)

Yet you still believe that if you stop using your mind you will be nothing. You want to be nothing! (“By ‘nothing’ of course I mean in the ego sense.”) This is your purpose in life. To be ‘nothing’. Absolutely nothing. To be no- thing.

When you mind tells you you are ‘something’, you have to watch yourself. You have to observe your (human) mind and see in what direction you are going.

And come to the conclusion that you have no ‘mind’. (“In Reality there is no separation between you and God-Mind”) There is absolutely no ‘mind’.

You have been mesmerized, somehow, to accept that you have a mind. And you have been walking around the earth like a peacock, strutting your feathers, as if you are something, and you can ‘accomplish’ something.

Yet, you do not want to think that in a few short years you will be gone...This body will exist no more.

And all you work, and all your struggle, all your accomplishments were in vain... Man’s inhumanity to man has not stopped.Yet in another sense, you have to do good because this is ones’s karma. We are not against anyone or anything....

Preparing for Refuge

We come back again and again to this earth. Until something tells us, there is nowhere to go, there is nothing to do...

yet I AM THAT.

And yet there is ‘nothing’.

I AM THAT has no ‘literal’ meaning. There is no explanation for it. Yet you are THAT. (“In Meditation, I AM THAT, that is, your True Nature”) You are THAT which has always been, which will always be. And that cannot be explained.

I am speaking of a Compassion that cannot be explained

Yet, as you evolve, something happens. The mind becomes less and less powerful. You are no longer taking orders from the mind that has brought fear to you, and disbelief, and disenchantment. This mind appears to be going away. It appears to be dissolving.

It never was here to begin with. So there is nothing to dissolve. Yet nevertheless, something is happening to you.

Do not try to analyze this, do not try to figure out. The one who makes the greatest spiritual (progress) does absolutely ‘nothing’. (“Of course when I say ‘nothing’, I mean, your True Self remains ever the same, doing nothing.) Yet they appear to be doing something. They practice sadhana *devotional practices, they pray, they meditate, yet they themselves are not doing a thing. Because they discover they are not the doer, for there is not one to do anything. (Separate form God)

In other words, you are already (within) God, what you think of God as being All-Pervading Omnipresent Omnipotent, there is nothing for God to want, to be, to react to. Therefore you can tell where you are, by the way you respond to these things....

