

ICL Lesson Student Vol II.

Is Life a Mystery?

The Original Pure Form Dialogue of Robert Adams

All Rights Reserved

Most of you here are ready. You are ready for something to happen to your life. You have been following this Teaching for a while now, and you have seen some results. You have seen that this world is not as it appears. And yet, you see the beauty of it all. There is great, tender beauty.

Things do not bother you as much, and yet you love people more. The layers of hardness have begun to fall off. Yet you cannot be hurt as easily. You are realizing who you really are. Yet you do not use this as a crazy excuse to do whatever you want to people, to make a stop going to work, all sorts of nonsense. They have it backwards. The happiness is just a taste of the bliss of your true Home. For as I have said, this earth is not your home. Yet while you are here, do everything correctly. Your future will reap great rewards.

A Deep Tenderness

Therefore, do not confuse seeking feeling good momentarily, with the full picture. What is the full picture? You are in total divine bliss right now. This very minute. You are just mesmerized. You are looking around frantically like a dog locked out of his home. Running around trying to feel at home. But you never will until you return to the awareness of your True Home, The Supreme. At some point, you must fool of yourself. You have wisdom. You are attaining wisdom.

You realize that everything you do creates immeasurable consequences. It will return to you in great measure. Yet your past does not hold you back, for you have corrected your mistakes. You no longer are attracted to these things.

You have gone deep within, asked for grace, and pulled yourself up by your bootstraps, so to speak. And it is all coming together. It is coming together very well indeed.

Meanwhile, a deep happiness is bubbling up each time you go deeper into the Silence of who you are. 'You' beyond your mere human identity.

piness is bubbling up each time you go deeper into the Silence of who you are. 'You' beyond your mere human identity.

An Unfathomable Depth

This happiness is deep. Unfathomable. Next to it, everything else appears somewhat dim. Now. At this point, many people fall into a trap.

They begin to think one of two things. They believe that seeking a good feeling is more important than anything else, their relationships, their job, their responsibilities.

They may treat their relationships badly. They feel good. They go from teacher to teacher, group to group. They say, "I feel so good there." But it becomes crazy. Like an addict. And they never remain long with anything. They just take. They do not give. It becomes me, me, me. They do not develop the Virtues. Because, eventually you must dedicate yourself completely to your awakening, out of love. No matter what else, ...

• Student Progress Markers:

- The layers of hardness begin to fall off
- You see the beauty behind life -You have gone deep within
- No longer attracted to old mistakes-pulled yourself up
- A deep tenderness arises